Foreword

AT THE CLOSE of another semester we are looking forward to being gathered together, under one roof, as one big loyal family in our beautiful new building.

True enough we have only the very happiest associations of our dear old Park bungalows which are now to go. But memories of the joys and pleasures will be with us for many a day.

The "Old Grads" wander back and marvel at our commodious new quarters, but they cast a glance at the humble bungalows that were their school-home for a few years past. But all must make way for the Path of Progress.

Again we have come to another milestone and are saying farewell to our graduates of June 1928, the largest class in the annals of Mission High. We are looking ahead for them on the Golden Path of Progress. We see them stepping out proudly on this path and we see the golden light of success, a glorious beacon for them in the Distance of the Future. Ever mindful of the beauty of the loyalty to their Alma Mater, may our graduates of June 1928, cherish the sentiment so wonderfully expressed by the Bard of Avon.

"The friends thou hast and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel."

“The Days of Gold”

IL WAS a gala day for the little town of Tamalta. The main street was thronged with curious people anxiously awaiting the sound of oncoming music. Turning the bend in the street the village band struck up the stirring notes of the Star Spangled Banner. The flag on top of the courthouse was raised as the last notes died away. Then, carried away by the intense excitement of the occasion, the populace gave three cheers.

“The Pony Express, hurrah!” For that was the cause of the celebrating. Two years had passed since the gold rush had swelled the population of Tamalta to such an extent that it was no longer a trading post with only a hotel and general merchandise store. In two years California had become the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow of fortune seekers from the East and South. Around the Horn, across the Canal, over the mountains, into the desert, they came. Miners on horseback, families in groups, Mexicans, Chinese and Indians, all had become enthralled with the magic word “Gold”

The peace-loving don and senorita were caught up and carried away by this human whirlwind of advancement. Villages, towns, settlements and camps had sprung up like mushrooms wherever the magic word “Gold” had been spoken. Towns had grown into cities and trading posts into towns. Just so had Tamalta grown.

And here was the fulfillment of Tamalta’s dream. A Pony Express station had been established in the town. Foresighted citizens, two years previously, had written to the President and asked for the station. After two years of ceaseless effort the station had materialized.

The Pony Express meant contact with the outside world. Twice a week a galloping horse and a dauntless rider would bring coveted news and letters. No wonder the cheer was given—“Pony Express, hurrah!”

“Josh” Edwards, the guiding light of Tamalta, made the main speech of the day. His beady eyes twinkled as he ran his hand through the white thatch of hair which kept falling over his face. He spoke enthusiastically.

“Tamalta will not forget this day. We all know what the Pony Express has done for California. We know what it will do for Tamalta. And Scott Burton is going to help us put Tamalta on the map as being the liveliest station in the Union.”

With this, Scott Burton, the rider of the Pony Express, stepped forward. Full of zest, he easily held the interest of his audience while he told them of the bravery of some of the original Pony Express riders. “To be on the Express is a trust and an honor. I realize the danger entailed in the position but also I know the value of such a job to the government. May Tamalta Station of the Pony Express have all the luck in the world.” Amid a thunderous burst of applause, he took a letter from “Josh” Edwards’ hand. It was the first letter to be sent from the new station to the Presidio Post in San Francisco. The contents were a word of greeting from Tamalta. Then “Josh” Edwards handed him a small package.

The ceremonies over, the inhabitants departed to the outskirts of the town to end the celebration with a barbecue. Scott and "Josh" went into the shining new office of the station. There was explained the contents of the package. "Josh" spoke, "I didn't like to make the fact known publicly but this package contains valuable information concerning that stir of trouble they had over at Usada when those Indians and Spanish along with Indians all quarreled over, what it seemed like, nothing. We think we've caught the fellow who caused all the trouble but need to verify our information with facts from the 'Frisco Post. The letter is only an excuse for you to go. The rest of Tamalta must not know of the package. Under no circumstances must you fail. It is vital that our message is received. Petty quarreling has been going on for some time across the border of California and Mexico. And, if you succeed, further complications will be avoided."

Scott Burton rode into the noon-day sun with his message of trust safely hid. As he reached the end of the main street, where road faded into foot-trail, he tied his pony to the fence of the house which set back in the trees and walked up the path leading to a porch. Standing in the doorway was a fair young girl.

California's sun had tanned her cheeks to an Indian hue. But strangely contrasting was her red-gold hair. Stretching out her hands in welcome, we led him into the house. He explained his mission to San Francisco. During the conversation it was revealed that the way to his destination was long and difficult. Two days of rapid riding over rough mountain paths and tumultuous streams. Desert sun and Indian bullet endangered the way. As the station at Tamalta was new the trail would be fresh. No well-beaten path would help the pony's journey. The rider's ability as a horseman would be put to the caustic test of continuous travel. Noon-day sun had faded to mid-afternoon sun when the messenger started again on his way.

As he speeded down the hillside, he saw a figure waving to him. With her words of well-wishing in his mind, he was sure of success for the new Pony Express Station of Tamalta.

Two nights had passed since a riderless pony had speeded into the town of San Francisco. The inhabitants, recognizing the pony as the breed used by the Express, had led him to the Presidio Post. A small packet was fastened to the saddle with a hasty scrawl. "Government Test," written across the top. The message was received but where was the messenger?

Indian scouts and private citizens were sent out in search. No news was brought in, and the matter soon was forgotten. Not that these early settlers were forgetful or cold-hearted. They were hardy and lived for the present. In their scan of being today was important. Necessity kept them constantly on the guard for today's trials. Pony Express riders were expected to be brave. It was tradition.

In the past they had died for the cause of advancement of civilization. The present and the future were no different than the past. Already Scott Burton's place was filled by another just as brave, just as hardy and just as young.

In the "days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49" bravery was the rule, not the exception. So, added to the list of Pony Express riders who had disappeared was that of Scott Burton. At the San Francisco station was written: "Scott Burton, Tamalta Rider, disappeared in service, cause unknown." In 'Frisco it was just a name and soon forgotten. No so in Tamalta.

Constant search was made for the missing rider. Three weeks had passed since he had vanished. "Josh" Edwards and Nancy Lee, who was the last to have seen Scott Burton, were earnestly talking in the office of the Pony Express. The girl's voice could be heard. "But if he were dead someone would have found his body. As it is, no trace near Tamalta or San Francisco can be found that he was killed. The very fact that he wrote on the packet shows he must be alive."

"Well enough," answered the elderly man, "there's still some hope. Really doubting his own remarks, he attempted to comfort the girl. "There has been too much searching near at hand and not enough in the questionable parts of the country. Has anyone thought to hunt near Usada?"

A month had come and gone since the disappearance of the valiant rider. Even Tamalta had given up hunting and "Josh" openly admitted that he thought the rider was "gone for good." Nancy was not to be swayed in her opinion that he had only disappeared.

Today the Pony Express would be in and all Tamalta turned out for news and letters. Would the pony carry any parcels of gold dust? Had there been any gold discovered up San Jacinto way? Was there any chance of the Sacramento overflowing this spring? Could Tamalta have an invitation to the Red Rodeo? Were the "chinks" still flocking to San Francisco as they had been the previous winter? Tamalta was all agog for news from the outside world.

Gathered in front of the courthouse where old "Josh" would tell the news, the oldest and the youngest were waiting anxiously, curiously for the glimpse of rising dust in the distance which would foretell the coming of the rider. There it was! A shout rang out as the pony became visible. The rider slackened the pace of his animal and waved his hand in greeting. Around the bend of the road he came. Then up the main street. As he drew near the onlookers recognized something foreign in his manner. Dismounting from his horse and nodding his head in an unfamiliar way, he puzzled them. Coming up to the courthouse they hailed, not the regular rider, but Scott Burton himself!

If the earth had opened and swallowed Tamalta into its bosom the inhabitants could not have been more surprised. "Josh" Edwards greeted him with genuine affection and as for Miss Nancy Lee, her joy was overwhelming. In front of the total population of Tamalta she announced, "I knew he wasn't dead, I knew he would come back."

That night around the cosy hearth stone of Miss Nancy's house at the end of the road "Josh" and the girl heard the story. The mountain path had been steep and as he had followed the sure-footed pony around the edge of a precipice, the earth had given way and he had slipped. Injured so badly from the fall that he could not continue, he sent the pony on with the packet.

"I managed to crawl to a point where the trail from Usada to San Jacinto crossed the trail from Tamalta to Frisco. The next day, when the Usada messenger speeded by he found me there and carried me on the back of his pony to Usada. In Usada where the border trouble had just cooled down I thought it best to keep my identity a secret. It was almost three weeks before I was able to ride again. As soon as I recovered I went to Frisco, found they had received the message and here I am."

His story was so simple that "Josh" could not fathom the reason that search had not been conducted around Usada. "It's the last place on earth we would have looked for you. Time to turn down the lights so I'll be on my way home. Goodnight Miss Nancy. Coming Scott?"

The Pony Express has been running for a year and changes can be seen in Tamalta. The main street is wider and smoother. A new courthouse and general store has been built. The excitement which first followed the gold rush has disappeared and a respectable "established" air scents Tamalta. Again there is a crowd assembled around the courthouse. Today is not the day for the Pony Express to come speeding home. What is the cause of the public interest?

Another parade? Yes, and the Star Spangled Banner sounds through the streets. Again the flag on top of the courthouse is raised and again a cheer is heard. It must be a great occasion which would cause as much feeling in Tamalta as the day the Pony Express was dedicated. What do the cheers say?

"The Pony Express! Scott Burton, hurray! Mrs. Nancy Burton, hurray!"
JEANETTE QUAST.

The Hand--The Heart--The Mind

The hand, and the heart and the mind are one;
The trinity of my soul.
The hand for the deed, and the mind for thot,
And the heart as a crown to the whole.
But each in fetter is closely bound
To the prison of worldly strife:
Oh, God! that I had the courage
To live, at will, my life!
To roam thru fields with flowers so wild,
And sing with the birds so free:
To forget the dust and darkness of earth
In the midst of such gaety:
To sleep 'neath the sky in the open,
With the grass as my pillow of down
And the stars above as my blanket
The blessings of God newly found,
To breathe with the breeze that wafts on the hill,
Is draining my life of its every thrill"

A Real American Tragedy

Joe and his lovely Maria—she with her bambino in her arms, he carrying Jocko, the monkey—stepped from the gang plank. At last they had reached America.

Months pass. Maria and the bambino, spending their days in the unhealthy air of a crowded tenement house, lost the healthy bloom of their cheeks. Accustomed to the clear sunshine and the balmy air of native Italy, Maria faded and died. Her bambino soon followed.

Jocko the monkey was all that was left to the sorrowing Joe. After a time Joe got enough money to buy an old hand organ and to "deck out" Jocko in a red cap and a jacket with bells.

"My monk," said Joe to a woman who stood watching, "he a fine monk. I bring him all the way from sunny Italy, and on the boat he play all day with my bambino. She in heaven now."

The woman looked unbelievably at Joe and said with a cruel smile to her companion, "These foreigners always have some story to tell. I'll wager he never had a bambino."

Joe was hurt and discouraged, but for the sake of his beloved bambino, he resolved to keep on trying. He still had Jocko.

A window across the street opened and a child tossed a small coin to Jocko. It fell in the middle of the street. Joe let Jocko's rope out and soon the coin reposed safely in the pocket of the little red jacket. Just then a huge limousine came along, and quick as a flash, before Joe could even think, the heavy wheels had crushed the life out of poor Jocko. The kind driver wished to stop and apologize to the sorrowing Italian. "Drive on, it was only an animal," said the owner of the car. "You know that I am already late for the reception." With that, she threw a bill of a small denomination in Joe's direction. Scorning the money but picking up the crushed body of his beloved Jocko, he stood in the street muttering in Italian, while hot tears fell on Jocko's fur.

Early the next day, a body was found floating on the water near a wharf. "Oh, it's only one of them Italians," said the policeman carelessly. "They are always killing themselves or one another." They laid the body indifferently on a cold marble slab at the morgue and tagged it "UNIDENTIFIED."

VINCENT WILFLOX.

The Greatest Thing on Earth

THIS STORY begins way up North where only the fittest can survive. To be exact, it was in the town of Dawson, that city long noted for its lure of gold. Three men were talking at the bar of an old "desolate saloon." The topics of the day, such as wine, women, song, and gold being rather worn and frayed, they started talking about what "the greatest thing on earth" could be.

"Well, boys," said Old Bill, a master of the trail, "the greatest thing on earth to me is wealth. Just look at what it can buy. It can buy power and make you the envy of men. Wealth can buy you heart's desire."

"I disagree with you thar," said Tom, who was ailing from the coldness of the snows. "Health is the greatest thing on earth. What good is power and all that thar stuff if you are always sick and ailing. Why you can't get anything out of life without the health of life."

"I cawn't seem to see it either of your ways," said the third member of the party, a little old wizened Englishman, a veteran of the storm. "The greatest thing on earth is glory and fame. Why, think of the world bowed at your feet. The great and the small paying homage to you and . . ."

The door opened and in walked a woman. A white woman. The three stared and stared. Her hair was like the sunshine of the California fields, her eyes like the blue of southern skies, and as she spoke her voice was like the ripple of the mountain stream. "Can you tell me where I can find Jack Timers?"

But ignoring her question, Old Bill put forth the question foremost in their minds. "What brings you up here Madam, in this land of snow and ice?"

She sort of looked him over wondering whether she should tell him or not. At last she said, "I guess it doesn't matter whether you hear my story or not but I'll go ahead." She told of their meeting, and of the liking that grew to love day by day. But fate had intertered and they had drifted apart. "You see," she said, "I love him—that's all I can say."

After she had gone to find her man, Old Bill spoke up and said, "Boys I think we made a mistake. The greatest thing on earth is Love."

The Girls' Council of the Mission High School

AT THE opening of the term, meetings of the girls of the eight grades, as H4, L4, H3, L3, H2, L2, III, I. I, were called. Miss Kelly, the Vice-Principal and Dean of girls addressed each group of the girls, setting forth the ideals and ambitions of the girls of the Mission High School and the functions and plans of the Girls' Council, the representative organization of the girls as a working unit of the school.

Then the nominations were called from the floor of the assembly and six delegates were elected to represent each of the eight groups of girls in the school. These delegates, forty-eight in number, with the Girl Student Body Officers compose the council of sixty members. The officers for this term are:

President	. . . . .	Elsie Hoff
Vice-President	. . . . .	Dorothy Skelly
Secretary	. . . . .	Honora Grealish
Treasurer	. . . . .	Lucile Mullen

The following committees have been appointed to carry on the various lines of work planned out by the Council:

The Social Service Committee, headed by Elsie Hoff, This Committee assists in distributing neat clothing to needy members in the school. The names of the girls who need this assistance are kept in confidence by Miss Kelly and the work is absolutely confidential.

The Good Cheer Committee, headed by Doris Chance, arranges that flowers or notes are sent to girls who are ill at home or in the hospital.

The Poster Committee, under Lucile Mullen, secures artistic posters to be placed about the school to encourage our pupils to keep the school neat and orderly.

The Thrift Committee, under Alice McGrath, is making plans for developing the habit of thrift among the students.

The Social Committee, under Elsie Hoff, will make plans for entertainment at the close of the term.

The Court and Grounds Committee, under Lauraine Lipscomb, is doing remarkable work in seeing that the Girls' Court is neat at all times.

The Girls' Council is still in its infancy, but there are plans for next year.

The R. O. T. C.

THE Mission R. O. T. C. battalion has worked hard during the past term. It was the hope of the officers of the battalion that they might crown the nine years of hard labor of Captain Flood with an Honor School citation. In this hope we were disappointed. Despite the fact that Mission showed great improvement over the Honor School Inspection of 1927, we still failed to reach the high standard required for the Honor School citation.

The battalion was handicapped at the Annual Inspection through the absence of two of the cadet captains, both of whom were out of school on account of sickness at this time.

A cup has been donated to be awarded annually to the organization of the Mission R. O. T. C. making the best showing in the Honor School Inspection. The cup was won this year by Company "A" under Captain Dave Snaider. The rules relation to future awards of the cup are such that if no organization reaches the standard set by the judges the cup will not be awarded that year.

 1st Lt. David S. G.

It is the confident hope and expectation of the entire R. O. T. C. organization that Mission will redeem itself in the Annual Competition at the Civic Auditorium. Mission has never had the good fortune to be represented by a better drill platoon than the one in training for 1928.

In the Individual Competition, Mission is very worthily represented. Probably the school has never sent down a stronger team of officers and of sergeants than the one representing us this year.

Never before, in the history of the Mission Battalion, has the entire corps of officers been members of the graduating class. Some 19 officers will be members of this year's class as a new standard of scholarship is being required in the R. O. T. C. for appointments as commissioned officers in the battalion.

Mission High R.O.T.C. Band

FOR four consecutive years the Mission High School's R. O. T. C. Band has been successful in winning the Championship Cup at the annual competition held in the Auditorium.

The officers are:

- Captain Robert Burton (Drum Major)
- Lieutenant Jaynes Mayer (Cadet Band Leader)
- Second Lieutenant William Wantz
- Second Lieutenant Robert Stoker
- Second Lieutenant Melvin Vann

The Rifle Team

DUE to a variety of causes the work of the Rifle Team during the past year has been exceedingly disappointing. After standing at the top for three consecutive years this year Mission slumped to fourth place. There were several reasons for this first, Captain Flood was away from the school for a large portion of the coaching time due to the fact that he was required to build up a rifle team at Galileo High School; secondly, the hold-overs from previous years in most cases failed to achieve their previous standards. This resulted in the composition of a team consisting almost entirely of new men. This new material gave much more in the way of promise than was actually developed in performance. The showing which they made, however, has given us very bright prospects for the year 1929.

As a set off against the slump which was taken by the rifle team, Mission offers an individual performance of unexcelled brilliance. In the National Rifle Association matches, Cadet Captain Robert Anderson made a record which it is believed will stand for an indefinite period. This cadet has developed under the coaching and tutelage of Captain Flood from a cadet of perhaps more than average promise into a shot holding several National Rifle Association medals and a world's record.

The work of the rifle team in the near future can best be predicated upon that of the past. The Mission Rifle Team to date has won 75 per cent of the awarded trophies. Since charity begins at home, the battalion has decided it to be the duty of all future rifle teams to keep the percentage column at 100 per cent to avoid disappointments.

Drama Club Activities

THIS SPRING the drama club has been able to offer plays with costumes and stage settings and properties made in the school. The fine equipment of the auditorium has been fully utilized on the several occasions when the public has been entertained.

Our first public performance was the three-act play, "To the Ladies," coached by Miss Donaldson. The interior set, designed by Miss Michel's stage-craft classes and made by Mr. Rust and his shop boys, was used for this play. The cast included: Charles Henry as Mr. Kincaid, President of the Kincaid Piano Company; his wife, Mrs. Kincaid, a very domineering woman, interpreted by Eleanor Wreden; Charles Golobic as Mr. Bebe, a struggling young newly-wed whose chief ambition is to obtain advancement of position, Mr. Henry striving for the same position as Mr. Bebe, played by Henry Barron. Mrs. Bebe, a fascinating and inspiring wife played successfully by Jeanette Quast. Ben Borden as Chester Mullen, the self-important pest; two burly truckmen interpreted by Kenneth Lopez and Edgar Libby; the vampish secretary played by Rachel Wirtanen; ladies and gentlemen at the banquet in the persons of Sylvia Lerner and Gus Reichart, Marion Miller and George Hampshire, Doris Menne and Earl McLaughlin; with Remo Valentino completing the cast, as a most elegant toastmaster.

A month later, February 15, two one act plays were given. The combined efforts of our two dramatic coaches, Mrs. de Luce and Miss Donaldson produced "The Romancers" and "The Exchange." The costumes, designed by Miss Michel and her art students and made by Miss Philips, Miss Walker and girls of the sewing classes, were especially elaborate. The setting for "The Romancers" was picturesque, having an arch, fantastic trees and a wall over which the two romancers exchanged messages of love. Designs were by Miss Michel's class and constructed by Mr. Rust's boys. The electric shop boys, under Mr. Swartz, displayed much ingenuity in obtaining gathering dusk and moonlight effects as the play progressed. Kessler MacCullough played Percinet, a young romancer in love with Barbara Fitzell as Sylvette, a beautiful young damsel. Pasquinor and Bergamin, two scheming old fathers, interpreted by Jack Lavin and Robert Tanzer; Charles Hewitt, the professional abductor. Stratorel, and his assistants Dorothy Farrar, Mary Lawton and Edward McLaughlin. The other play "The Exchange," had in its cast, Ben Borden, the very imposing judge of the Court of Human Misery; Emma Pinkerton, as the vain lady; Kenneth Lopez, as the poor man; Vernie Blair, interpreting the very wealthy but bored gentleman, and Byron Petersen as an amusingly quaint imp, completely captivated his audience with his antics.

Three one-act skits, written and produced by Missionites under the supervision of the drama teachers were given for the Sophomore reception on March 23. One skit, "At the Station," written by Kessler MacCullough, was a comedy elopement. The cast included, Ethel Volpatti, the impatient runaway, and Edward McLaughlin the handsome Romeo, with Beth Murphy and Walter Anderson as a happy newly-wed couple. A second skit written by Vivian Crosby was a mystery story, Reva Addison, as a woman experienced in the arts of mummy embalming; Stella Reingold and Aileen Cowan as fascinating and beautiful sisters; and Elmer Garrigan, as a young swain who falls under the spell of Aileen's charm completed the cast. The third skit, "His Father's Son," written by Stella Reingold, told the story of father and son's relations in business. Eddie Burke played a golf-crazed youth; Joseph McBride interpreted a man burdened with work and trouble, and a second "Fillie, the Toiler," appeared in the person of Vivian Crosby. A fourth skit written by Jeanette Quast had in its cast, the stern father played by Ben Borden, the sympathetic mother acted by Lorene Hittman, the vivacious daughter interpreted by Dorothy Sherwood, George Hampshire as a handsome beau, and Mel Duffey as a most terrifying burglar.

This year Mel Duffey and Geneva Calot were chosen to represent Mission at the annual Shakespearean contest held in Berkeley. At the last minute, Elsie Hoff substituted for Geneva, who was ill. Stewart Pritchard, a Missionite, but representing Commerce Evening High School, achieved the honor of being chosen one of the three boys of Class A to read in the Greek Theatre in the second contest. On April 27, a Shakespearean contest between eight day and evening high schools of San Francisco was held in Mission's Auditorium. Charles Golobic, our boy representative, won for Mission the first prize, a beautiful silver cup. Elsie Hoff, representing Mission, took one of the second prizes, a scholarship in a San Francisco dramatic school.

As a contribution to our carnival given May 4, the Dramatic Club gave two different scenes from Shakespeare. The witches scene, taken from Macbeth, given in the afternoon, was the work of Mrs. de Luce's classes. The setting was simple except for a cauldron; the stage was in darkness; thunder was furnished by Mr. Ingram's kettle drummers and lightning by Mr. Swartz's electric shop boys. The witches were Geneva Calof, Marjorie Dover, Catherine Grassle, Dolly Johnson, Sara Tharp, Monica Lawton, Ethel Volpatti, Reva Addison, Stella Reingold, Mary Lawton, Lurline Matson, Bessie Silver, and Hyacinth Giddings. Henry Barron appeared as Macbeth, in shining armor, helmet and sword. Miss Donaldson coached the scene for the evening performance. The scene was taken from "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The two comedy characters, Pyramus and Thisbe were played by Kessler MacCullough and Mel Duffey. Moonshine was interpreted by Edward Hock, with Fred Mack as the Lion; Charles Hewitt as the Prologue and Byron Peterson as the Wall completed the cast.

Debating

THE first important event of the spring term was the Public Speaking contest held by the San Francisco High School Debating League on the night of February 3, 1928, in the Girls' High School. Representatives from Lowell, Girls', Polytechnic, Galileo, and Mission participated. Elsie Hoff, from Mission, won first speaker's place and was awarded S. F. D. L. gold medal.

The first of the inter-scholastic debates took place February 24th, 1928, and was on the question "Resolved: That the City and County of San Francisco should establish a Junior College." Mission's Affirmative, Henry Barron and Myron Moscovitz, defeated Galileo's Negative, Myron Moscovitz won first speaker's place. Mission's Negative Leonard Hoover and Leslie Knott, lost to Lowell.

The second debate was on the question, "Resolved: That the Intervention of the United States in the Internal Affairs of Nicaragua is Justified." Mission's Affirmative, Myron Moscovitz and Leonard Hoover, lost to Polytechnic on April 27, 1928. Mission's Negative, Leslie Knott and Henry Barron, defeated Galileo's Affirmative on April 30, 1928. Henry Barron won first speaker's place, and Leslie Knott tied for second place.

A great deal of interest was centered in this last debate for it determined the winning or losing of S.F.D.L. pin awards. Henry Barron came out victorious.

Much interest is being displayed in the inter-class debates. The results to May 1st are as follows.

Much interest is being displayed in the inter-class debates. The results to May 1st are as follows:

Albert Gommo and Kramer Rohfleisch, Low Seniors, defeated Jeannette Quast and Elsie Hoff, High Seniors.

Richard O'Connor and Douglas Holcomb, Low Seniors, defeated Alfonso Tous and Dave Fisen, High Seniors.

Alice Heim and Mildred Greenberg, Low Juniors, defeated Limb Lee and Louis Kruger, High Juniors.

Joseph Couly and Frank Silverthorne, Low Juniors, defeated Don Crews and Clyde Pearson, High Juniors.

The Students Bank

DURING this term Mission High School has made a reputation as the honor High School for Thrift, winning the prize offered by the Anglo-California Trust Co., for the largest number of depositors. Under a new system of saving, approximately four hundred Mission Students have deposited in the Students' Bank for the current term. A close race developed early in the term in the Thrift Competition. Polytechnic, our nearest rival, was out-distanced during the last three weeks of the race, and Mission has won the honor cup.

Next term, we expect to make an even greater record. The plans for maintaining our excellent organization are well under way and with our true Mission Spirit we hope to make a wonderful showing. In these days of extravagance, we will try to encourage the habits of thrift — "A penny saved is a penny earned" — our slogan will lead us on to victory. ## The Traffic Squad

THE TRAFFIC SQUAD is now an important organization in the composition of Mission's efficiency. Established two years ago by Sergeant Douglas and carried on by student leaders since then. Its place in the school's system is gradually becoming more recognized by the Faculty and Students.

The duty of the Traffic Squad is to relieve congestion in the halls between periods. Since its formation its tasks have grown to great magnitudes.

The Traffic Squad wishes to thank the Faculty and students for the cooperation rendered throughout the term.

The members of the Traffic Squad are:

The Dance Orchestra

AS THE Spring Term of 1928 comes to a close Mission finds itself with the best Dance Band it has had in years. Under the leadership of Bob Burton, who has been in charge for the last year, a try-out was held at the beginning of the term. The following "jazz-hounds" were selected to give Mission its "jazz":

Bob Burton . . . . .	E: Alto Sax. and Clar.
Al Mulheback . . . . .	F: Alto Sax. and Clar.
Charlie Nelson . . . . .	B: Tenor Sax. and Clar.
Evan Fabian . . . . .	Trumpet
Dan Jones . . . . .	Banjo
Max Beck . . . . .	Basses
Earl Ducklow . . . . .	Piano
Fred Smith . . . . .	Drums

As Bob Burton is the only one graduating and Fred Smith can be just as capable a leader the Dance Band should prosper for a long time to come.

The boys, this term are not taking any credit for their work, but hope to be sporting a special Block "M" soon.

BOB BURTON.

Baseball

STARTING this year with a team composed of mostly sophomores and juniors. Coach Carl Grassle whipped into shape a team that was to play for the championship in the A. A. A. Only three regulars of last season were left on which to build a new team.

Our practice games were not much to speak of as we won only two games out of the seven played. We defeated St. Mary's "Frosh" and Fremont High of Oakland but lost to California "Frosh," Stanford "Frosh," Oakland "Tech," Berkeley, and McClymonds. These losses did not mean much as we were trying out new combinations in the field and outfield.

In our first league game, we defeated Commerce by a score of 6-0. Then the team took Cogswell down the line by a score of 5-3. Silkitis pitched both of these games and had an easy time of it. Sacred Heart next lost to us 3-2, and finally we won our division by beating Galileo by a score of 3-2. Silverthorn chucked his best ball, as these teams were hard to beat. At this time Mission is waiting to play the winner of the other division for the championship.

Our Baseball Stars

Unlimited Track

DUE partly to the lack of material but mainly to our poor facilities Mission had a mediocre track team in the unlimited class.

The fellows out for the squad were all capable men but there were too few to make a creditable showing in the A. A. A. They should be excused because every one of them was new to track work.

Captain Jack de Michelis led out hurdlers and could be counted on for points in any meet. Jack Baat and Frank Skelly also ran the hurdles but were new to the sticks so little could be expected of them.

Our most consistent point-getter was Will Fraser who ran the mile and 880. In every race his team mate, Leo Erkkila, was close behind.

The sprinters, Al Fitzgerald, Charles Reddy and Homer Jones gave a good account of themselves. They lack race experience, however, and should be good next season.

The weights and javelins were taken care of by Rae, Clark and Petrosky. All were new to the events but proved willing to learn.

Baat and Skelly took on the pole vault assignment. To Charles Henry went the task of upholding Mission in the 440 and the broad jump. He lived up to the task creditably.

It is not very often that a team scoring seven points takes a fourth place but the last A. A. A. Track Meet was one of those few times. Mission took fourth place with only seven points.

We are under obligation to Fraser, Erkilli, and Henry for the fourth place.

Will Frazer forced Helgan of Poly to equal the record to beat him in the mile. Bill was "doped" for second and no one was surprised by his achievement. Leo Erkilli proved to be a sensation when he followed Fraser in. Erkilli was not figured at all.

Charles Henry added the remaining two points by taking third in the broad jump with a leap of 20' 5". Henry, had he not fouled—his front spikes going over the board—would now be the possessor of the record. He jumped 22' 2 1/2" only to be disqualified for fouling.

Junior Track

The Junior Track entered the Triple A Meet unheralded as to its possibilities and after the meet it was the most talked of squad. "With a little luck Mission might have beaten out Lowell for second place," declared a local newspaper when it was all over.

As it was the team scored 33 points, a remarkable number considering that four boys were responsible for 27 of the total.

Jimmy Shields, besides breaking the 220 record in the 110 class, won the 75-yard dash. Due mainly to Shields, the 110's took third place in the relay. Jimmy consequently was responsible for 12 of the 33 points.

Captain Lambert took two seconds adding six points to the team score. "Twin" was barely beaten in the 75, while in the high jump he forced Nyman of Lowell to break the record.

Woo in the 100's was running under a serious handicap, so for the first time this year he was forced into second places. Woo was responsible for the 100's taking third in the relay.

Joe Dunning surprised everyone by leaping 19' 3 1/2" in the 110 pound broad jump, taking first place and also running a good relay lap.

The 130-pound relay team composed of Bihler, Legakes, Verza, and Norgaard took third place. These boys added two points to the Padres score.

The 110-pound team composed of Dunning, Garay, Bassi, and Shields took third place also.

The 100's composed of Woo, Banchero, Grosetti, and Sullivan to make it complete, took another third.

Thus Mission took third place with 33 points and bid fair to make even a better showing next year.

H. STANLEY.

Unlimited Crew

THE unlimited crew started the season by losing to Oakland High on Lake Merritt. The men were severely handicapped, using oars to which they were unaccustomed, and rowing on a strange course. They put up a hard fight and lost by the narrow margin of a boat length and a half. Oakland High had perviously defeated Galileo by the same margin Mission was defeated. In a return race at Yacht Harbor the Mission crew won by default.

Coach Sturgeon, aided by Captain Hood and a host of veteran oarsmen, has developed a powerful crew.

The line-up for the A. A. A. regatta will probably be

Starboard		Port
Roechiese . . . . .	Stroke . . . . .	Rae
Donlin . . . . .	5 . . . . .	Verducci
Hauck . . . . .	4 . . . . .	Warden
Curtin . . . . .	3 . . . . .	Risso
Hood (C) . . . . .	2 . . . . .	Clark
Taylor . . . . .	Bow . . . . .	Krohn
	Pilot Kirby
	Coxswain Feely

Substitutes O'Neil, Cloke, Upton, Finnegan, Duper and Koch.

The Lightweight Crew

THE lightweight crew of Mission High defeated Oakland High on Lake Merritt April 23, 1928, by ten boat lengths. This was the first race this season for Mission's crew.

The A. A. A. regatta was held on May 19, 1928.

The lineup for the A. A. A. regatta was as follows.

Starboard		Port
Norgaard (C)	Stroke	McFadden
Stevens	5	Madigan
Barnard	4	Kelly
R. Spear	3	McGee
Savanto	2	Campbell
Wantz	Bow	Johnson

Coxswain--Anderson

Pilot--Brown

Substitutes: Edgar, Lindquist, Spear, Landwehr, Mohr and Fergeson

Varsity Basket Ball

THE practice season this year opened up with some twenty men reporting for the team of whom nine were members at last year varsity.

The team had many practice games around the bay district defeating some of the best teams in the vicinity.

Mission had the honor at starting in the A. A. A. basket ball tournament with one of the hardest schedules ever given to a San Francisco prep team, and although we did not do so well in the league this year, losing a majority of our games, two of them by the small margin of two points, we had a fighting team.

The team was composed of:
 Captain George Sorenson, the most consistent scorer on the team
 Milton Kelly, the best floorman Mission has ever seen.
 A. Dupper a brilliant forward and star at the St. Ignatius game.
 Elmer Garrigan, second all star and our long shot boy.
 Harry Phillips, a block "M" and consistent scorer.
 George Pratt a hard man to stop.
 Hugo Rispoli, a dead eye on fouls.
 Ray Roeschise, he stopped all the big boys.
 Francis Gallagher, a Sophomore with two more years of competition ahead of him.

FRANCIS J. LAMBERT.

130-Pound Team

THE 130 pound team this year was composed of entirely new material with the exception of Louis Haas, a guard and member of last years "30's." After making a wonderful showing in their practice games around the bay district, the team seemed to lose all of their teamwork and scoring ability previously shown. I am sure that the "30's" will contribute some valuable material to next year's varsity team.

The lineup:

- Guard* . . . . . John Kasloff
  - Guard* . . . . . Louis Haas
  - Center* . . . . . Siggs
  - Forward* . . . . . Holcomb
  - Forward* . . . . . Dedominico
- Substitutes: Lebedeff, William Lewis, Joe Mahoney
Mickey Russell, Jack Lavin.

OUR YELL LEADERS

In the first meet held, Mission took third place. University and Fremont beat us out, while Oakland brought up the rear. All the fellows showed up well: Fraser, with two firsts, Fitzgerald, with two seconds, and de Michelis, with a second, were outstanding.

Against Cogswell the team met defeat to the tune of 63 to 41. The only notable performance was the placing of the first three men in the mile and the half.

The Mission Sea Scouts

THE SEA SCOUTS, directed by Mr. Wieland, have been very active this past term. Besides taking many cruises around the bay, they have completed the installation of a motor in their boat, and are now building a cabin on it so that they will be able to go on long cruises during the fall and winter.

At the present time, there are about 25 boys enrolled in the Sea Scouts, leaving 11 places open for boys who wish to join. Besides going on pleasure trips, the boys learn seamanship, navigation, and other useful things.

The present officers of the Sea Scouts are: Mr. Wieland, skipper, H. Taylor, first mate; H. Anderson, second mate; and L. Arteseros, chief voeman

Girls' Crew

A great many girls turned out for crew this spring. There was keen competition for the positions on the first crew, because of the fact that the entire veteran crew was out again. Mission's first crew crossed the finish-line and won the championship at the last regatta, and the girls practiced hard this season in order to repeat their success. Miss B. I. Powell and Kramer Rohfleisch coached the two crews. In view of the fact that almost all of the girls had rowed at least four terms, the hope of victory was strong.

Two of the girls have rowed for Mission eight terms. They are Captain Marjorie Munroe, and Alice Hamilton. Louraine Lipscomb has rowed seven terms. Elenor Wreden and Jeannette Quast have six terms to their credit. Juanita Carroll and Lucille Mullen have been out four. The graduation of these girls this term will make a big change in next term's crew.

FRESHMAN VOLLEY BALL TEAM

Girls' Baseball

The Mission Spirit

THE girls of Mission High School cooperated and responded with much enthusiasm to the call for baseball players. It is believed that the girls' new award system encouraged many new candidates to turn out as representatives of the girls' athletic activities of this spring term 1928.

The Freshmen were well represented by a total of 56 candidates making up four complete teams with V. Sahlberg, K. Witney, F. Greene, and V. Brinkers acting as leaders until the preliminary games were completed. The Freshmen are under the direction of our new and very much welcomed gym teacher, Miss Leaman. The Sophomore class was the best represented of the four classes having a total number of 73 candidates, all interested in becoming baseball players. Under the able supervision of Miss Conroy, four teams have been organized and Anna Dunn, B. Roseman, Claire Roberts, and C. Scanlon chosen as temporary leaders. The Junior representatives, though only 26 in number, appear to be the baseball favorites; however, they are going to have to play some fine baseball to outclass the other teams. The Juniors are under the guidance of Miss Powell. The Seniors have cause to be proud of the remarkable turn out of representatives this term for baseball. The candidates total up to 32 which is an unusual number taking into consideration the many other activities that occupy a Senior's time. The two Senior teams are under the skillful coaching of Miss Davidson and have A. Hamilton and E. Neilson acting as captains.

After each of the twelve teams has played two preliminary games, the Inter-class games will take place. Taking into consideration the above facts, the Inter-class games are bound to be exciting, and well worth seeing.

OUR K-37

We leave the harbor soon to sail
 On Life's uncharted misty wave:
 We leave our ports to win or fail,
 The surging seas and storms to brave,
 Some ships will sink in winds that shift,
 And some will only lightly drift:
 Rich cargoes some shall bring to fame,
 And some shall win an honored name:
 But which are these, ah, none can tell,
 We leave, good friends, farewell, farewell.

L. MORBY.

Mission High Parent-Teachers Association

Has during the past year conducted a successful Study Class.

Contributed approximately fifty dollars ($50.00) to the District Scholarship Fund.

Maintained a Scholarship Fund of our own which has helped seven pupils to continue school.

With more members we can do more. Do your parents belong?

Regular meetings — first Thursday of each school month, at 1:30 P.M.

“My Thrift Creed”

I KNOW I want my future to be happy, prosperous and safe. I know these things can only be brought about by continued effort on my part

AND SO

I BELIEVE in Thrift, in saving regularly for a definite purpose, in building a firm foundation for my success in business, contentment in my home, and an assured standing in society.

I BELIEVE a savings account is the best means of practising Thrift, for the interest paid on my deposits acts as an incentive to further savings, and, by laying aside a definite sum every week, I can see my power expand.

I BELIEVE I should avoid delaying my success by wasting money that would have been working for me by earning interest, had I saved it in a bank.

I BELIEVE it is worth while to deny myself some things now; not stingily, but sensibly, in order to build up this fund that later will assure so much greater happiness for me and my loved ones, and make my ambitions come true.

DID HE GET THE POSITION?

Old gentleman engaging a chauffeur—"I suppose I can write to your last employers for your character?"

Chauffeur—"I am sorry to say, sir, each of the last two gentlemen passed away in my service."

GOOD COMPANY

Insane Asylum Warden (when asked if he liked his job answered) "Yes everyone is just crazy about me."

TAKING NO CHANCES

Aunt Dinah (to her offspring): "Heah you, chile take date key outa yo mouf do you want to get the lock jaw?"

ASK FATHER

Father's method of working hard Algebra problems—"Ask your mother—can't you see I'm busy?"

JUST ACTING

It was a death bed scene in a Shakespearean rehearsal. Coach—"Mel, come on, put more life into your dying."

HIGH AND DEEP

"Your answer reminds me of Quebec."

"How so?"

"It was founded on a bluff."

Tom—"And what is so rare as a day in June, Bill?"

Bill—"The 30th of February is rarer than the rarest day in June. I'll say."

CANDID

Poet—"I put my whole mind into this poem."

Eddie—"Evidently—I see it is blank verse."

DURING MUSIC WEEK

Joe—"He looks like a musical sort of fish."

Zoe—"Sure, he is a 'Piano Tuna'."

Bill—"Those corduroys look a bit worn."

Jack—"Yes, they're on their last legs."

Jones—"They are making use of all kinds of skins, even of rat skins—but I want to know what they make out of banana skins."

Abe—"I know—they make slippers of them."

CAREFUL

(The train was approaching the station.) "Shall I brush you off, sub?" said the helpful porter.

"Not if I know it, I'll get off when the trains stop," was the reply.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

IF all the zero's handed out by teachers were made of steel and forged together as a chain, it would serve to anchor the Leviathan in mid ocean.

IF all the golf balls lost by our golf players were laid in single file they would be a silly, silly sight indeed. Enough spaghetti is consumed in the Gate to make aerial for 164½ radio sets."

Jack—"Most men call a spade a spade, but when he starts to use it he calls it something else."

"The most dangerous thing about a motor car is the driver
